

VILLA'S LIFE HOPE TO BE PRESIDENT

By Associated Press.
Chihuahua City, Mexico, March 14.—Villa, the one-time bandit, will be the next President of Mexico. This is his ambition and despite all reports to the contrary, it will remain his ambition until he is either dead or President. This declaration was made today by a friend of General Villa, so close to the Mexican Constitutional as to give authority to the assertion. "General Villa will remain Supreme Commander through the progress of the rebellion," said one of his advisers. "He could not afford to go south at the head of his troops in the attack on Torreon until he had satisfied himself that his going would not result in the loss of any of his power."

SAYS PAGE SHOULD BE MUZZLED

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., March 14.—"Some means ought to be found by the 'powers-that-be' to seal the lips of the Ambassador to Great Britain, or else in justice to the American people, he ought to be recalled, and that as promptly as possible," declared Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, in a formal statement today after reading the cable accounts of the Ambassador's address before the Associated Chambers of Commerce in London recently. Senator Chamberlain introduced the resolution passed by the Senate as the result of which Secretary Bryan cabled Mr. Page for a full report of his speech in which he was reported as having said that the Americans were pleased that Great Britain should profit most by the Panama Canal, and that the Monroe Doctrine meant merely that the United States would "prefer that no European governments would gain land in the United States."

Where there are such representatives, he suggests that even where their governments have recognized Huerta, these consuls may unofficially communicate with them without involving their governments. Also he suggested his willingness to listen to and heed any applications made to him directly by the friends and relatives of foreigners whose lives and property may be threatened and to punish any of his followers who may be culpable. This is in substance the telegraphic report made to Secretary Bryan today by American Consul Simpich, at Nogales.

stone. It is a rough, weather beaten boulder of granite, weighing about seven tons, from the mountain side of Slieve-na-Large, where it rested at a height of 600 feet.
Upon the upper surface of this boulder is incised an Irish cross, faithfully reproduced from one cut on an equally rough, unhewn stone found on the island of Inisiclothran, one of the islands of Lough Ree, where St. Diarmid founded his famous ecclesiastical settlement about the middle of the sixth century.
Under the cross the name "Patric" is cut in Irish characters copied from the earliest known Celtic manuscripts. The simple treatment is considered to be the nearest approach to the form of monument which would have been constructed about the year 493, the supposed date of the saint's death.

By Associated Press.
New York City, March 14.—A little cheer came to the employees of the bankrupt Seigel stores here today with the announcement that John Clafin would place as many as possible of the 2,000 in various department stores throughout the city in which he is interested. The announcement means that at least three large department stores will furnish jobs to Seigel employees.
Hundreds of the store clerks besides losing their positions, will lose their savings because they were depositors in a small way in the defunct Seigel bank and their accounts averaging from $25 to $300 are lost. They also contributed to the sick benefit fund of the two stores, which is swallowed up in the crash.

U.S. EXPRESS CO. TO BE DISSOLVED

New York, March 14.—Directors of the United States Express Company yesterday voted unanimously to liquidate its affairs and dissolve it in the shortest possible time. The resolution under which this action was recommended follows:

Resolved, That pursuant to the power and authority conferred upon the board of directors of the United States Express Company by its articles of association, the board unanimously declares that it is for the best interests of the company that the company be dissolved as soon as may be, without awaiting the expiration of its term of existence; and that its business and affairs be settled up and finally adjusted as promptly as may be done. The president is directed to inform the shareholders of the company of said action of the board.

The precise means to be adopted for realizing on the company's assets were not disclosed, but it is thought likely that a syndicate will be formed to take them over so that they may be disposed of to the best advantage.

The success of the parcel post and the recent order of the interstate commerce commission, resulting in a 16 per cent reduction in express charges, are held directly responsible for the company's retirement from business after 60 years of continuous operation over some of the leading railroads of the country.

The late Thomas C. Platt and his family were for years the dominant interests in United States Express. In fact, their control was so complete that they succeeded in warding off numerous demands and protests on the part of minority interests and for many years practically nothing was known by the public of the affairs of the company, no meeting of the stockholders having been held in more than 50 years.

There are outstanding 100,000 shares of United States Express stock, and these are in comparatively few hands. The Harriman estate is believed to hold more than one-fifth of the whole, which the late E. H. Harriman acquired from the American and Adams Express Companies some time before his death, at an outlay of about $2,250,000. The interests of the Platt family, two of whom continued active in the management of the company, are said to be relatively small.

The express company at one time had contracts covering 38,000 miles with some of the leading railway lines of the country.

LOCAL WOMAN IS FIRST INMATE

The article in Thursday's Daily Herald, on the Theodore Presser Home, now being built in Germantown as "The Presser Home for Retired Music Teachers," recalled to Washingtonians the first inmate of the original Presser home, Mrs. W. C. Gould, of this city.

The original home was in Philadelphia, established perhaps six or seven years ago, and the applicant to be at least 65 years of age, and have followed the profession of teacher of music in the United States for 25 years, and at the time of making application be incapacitated for active teaching.

Mrs. Gould, after a quarter of a century of music teaching in this community, was placed in the Presser Home by the K. of P. lodge, Dr. C. E. Page, as its representative, accompanied her to Philadelphia and established her as the first inmate of this attractive home. Mrs. Gould was at that time a confirmed invalid and later needed a great deal of care. When Prof. Presser moved his home to Germantown he had her comfortably placed in the new home, with a nurse and every attention.

The success of the Presser Home for Musicians has led to the erection of the new and splendid building.

ATTEMPTED TO BURN CHURCH

Amherst, Ohio, March 14.—An attempt recently was made to destroy the Methodist church here by fire. It was learned yesterday. The attempt was inspired, it is believed, by attacks made by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Robb, on vice and the saloon evil.

In his sermons recently Rev. Robb has attacked the saloons and has denounced vice. The liquor element in the city was stirred by his remarks.

A hole was bored in the east door and oil was poured in and lighted. The flames had destroyed a rug and charred the flooring and the door before they went out.

Boys and Sleep.

One thing a growing boy wants to be long on is sleep, and yet he is most apt to be careless about it. It is during sleep that a boy grows most and catches up. During his waking hours he tears down and burns up more tissue than he builds. Good, sound and sufficient sleep is essential to growth, strength and endurance. A boy should have at least nine or ten hours of sleep out of every twenty-four. If you lose out on this amount on one day make it up the next. Whenever unusually tired or when you feel out of trim stay in bed a few hours more if it is possible. A boy should wake up each morning feeling like a fighting cock. When he doesn't he ought to get to bed earlier that night. Sleep is a wonderful restorative and tonic. It helps to store up energy and conserve strength.—"Boy Scouts of America."

"I take great pleasure in recommending your Dr. King's New Discovery for the benefit of suffering humanity. It's a thoroughly reliable remedy for all coughs, croup and lung troubles. We have used it in our family for fourteen years with the best results. It saved my mother when two doctors gave her up. She had a very severe case of pneumonia and was in bed seven weeks and part of the time 'out of her mind' so that she did not know me. I told father to get me two 50c bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, which he did, and on taking it she soon began to improve, and four bottles cured her entirely. Council Is Clearly Right

The City Council has acted wisely in refusing to be hurried into granting a franchise to the railroad companies to construct switches and sidetracks across those streets which connect the business section of the city with that large and populous residence section known as "Sunny Side."

It is too early yet to express any decided opinion on the merits of the request made by the railroad company to increase the number of tracks which cross these very much traveled streets.

Every track crossing the streets makes it more dangerous to the citizens who use the highways and the members of our city council are, evidently, not unmindful of the danger and annoyance of the now generally recognized "deadly" grade crossing. The larger cities are fast doing away with grade crossings and the smaller cities and towns, not yet able under the law to compel the abolishing of grade crossings, are not nearly so free to grant permission to railroad companies to cross the highways with their tracks as they once were.

Experience has taught that the menace to life and the hindrance to traffic of the grade crossing is great indeed and, of course, the greater the population the greater the travel, and the greater the menace.

Washington shippers have long needed better depot facilities, but the railroad companies, after being importuned for years by our citizens, and after imperative order of the State Utilities Commission, should not make the granting of relief in that regard to a portion of our people, important as they are in the individual and business life of the community, contingent upon the creation of a greater inconvenience and a grave danger to a much larger number of our citizens.

This city is peculiarly laid out, cut into four sections by the railroad tracks, and it is well indeed that our city authorities should proceed with great caution and only after due consideration, weighing carefully the annoyance to be relieved and that proposed to be imposed, before taking final action on an application such as the one now pending before the City Council.

After years of agitation by the people and months of preparation by the railroad companies to comply with mandatory orders for a new freight depot, the people of Washington are warranted in concluding that the railroad company knew long, long before an application was made to council for permission to lay additional tracks across the streets, that such a proceeding would be necessary.

It comes, therefore, with exceeding ill grace for the railroad companies to make this eleventh hour application and ask that extraordinary haste be resorted to in rushing through a franchise that will create a menace to life for many years to come.

It is possible, of course, that the railroad companies ascertained at the last minute that more grade crossings are conditions precedent to the building of a suitable freight depot, and that it was necessary to ask unseemly haste in granting permission to construct them, but it does not seem reasonable on the facts thus far in the possession of the public.

It looks much more like the old familiar railroad plan of forcing through unjust privileges by making the granting of that privilege the only means of relief from the imposition of miserable conditions.

No one would place a straw in the way of securing proper depot facilities for Washington. Our citizens have long tried every honorable means to secure relief, but they should not consent to make bad matters worse.

It may be that after due consideration Council may reach an agreement with the railroad company which will bring about a resumption of work on the new depot, but in refusing to be rushed into it Council has acted wisely.

While our shippers need relief it is also true that our thousands of citizens who do not have need to use a freight depot, have rights that require protection, and Council must guard the interests of both in any legislation it may enact.

Council should, and doubtless will, consent to enact all reasonable legislation which the railroad asks as a condition precedent to building a new freight depot, but it should not, and, judging from the action so far taken, will not be rushed into an unfair agreement and impose upon the public the obligation to pay too high a price for relief.

The actual relations are such that any attempt at Filipino government would lead only to rebellion and disaster. Peace in the Moro province can be MAINTAINED ONLY BY A CONTINUANCE OF AMERICAN CONTROL. Poetry For Today

THE REDBIRDS.

The redbirds were whistling this morning—
Their music was wondrously sweet;
The rays of the sun were adorning
The cold and the desolate street.
Tu-whit and tu-wheel—
A wonderful thing;
And lo! by their music
I knew it was spring!

The redbirds were sweetly prophetic—
They sang of the beauties to be;
The end of the winter ascetic,
And the deep summer shade of the tree.
Tu-whit and tu-wheel—
A wonderful thing;
And lo! by their music
I knew it was spring.

My heart made a song for the glory
Of meadows made tenderly green,
For blooms where the forest is hoary,
And the sunflowers nodding serene.
Tu-whit and tu-wheel—
A wonderful thing;
And lo! by their music
I knew it was spring.

Views of Others

THE NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

The chronic scheme for a "national university" at Washington is now before the House Committee on Education in the shape of a modest "starter" or "entering wedge" bill, appropriating $50,000.

The objections to such an institution have been set forth adequately many times in the many years its foundation has been proposed. The incorrigible tendency of the Federal government to magnify itself is now being triumphantly exerted in so many directions that the present may be just the right time for this old nation to take concrete shape. None the less there never was so little excuse for this soaring project.

In Washington's time and a good deal later, when colleges were few and of meagre resources and facilities and there was no university in the proper sense of the word, a national establishment may have had its justification. Now the State and other universities are abundant, growing, competent, equal to their task. There are too many of them rather than too few.

Federal chairs of certain branches, such as political economy or medicine or theology, might lead to grave or ridiculous embarrassments; but the country is "college educated" to death and what justification can there be for milking taxpayers for the benefit of a "higher education" and the glorification of Washington, already provided with universities?

As for the consecration of various scientific and educational institutions and bodies, Government and private, at Washington, that is something which must be done, but a Federal university is as superfluous as a Federal church.—Athens Messenger.

WHAT MAKES WOMEN ANGRY

J. Nilsen Laurvik, writing an article entitled "John Bull's Militant Daughters," in the April Woman's Home Companion, states as follows the causes of the militant movement in England:

"First, the law of inheritance, which in every instance includes her in favor of some male member of the family, often leaving her a penniless dependent upon the male relatives to whom her due share has gone, and that further deprives her of right to her own children unless they are born out of wedlock; she has neither dower rights nor rights as a mother. By English law no married woman exists as the mother of the child she brings into the world. The child, according to English marriage laws, has only one parent, and that parent is the father; while out of marriage the law recognizes only one parent and that parent is—the mother.

"Second, the unjustly discriminatory divorce laws, designed to safeguard and shield the man, and which even Mr. Gladstone declared to be 'a gross injustice to women in favor of men,' an excellent illustration of which is the case of the wife of a day laborer in London told of by Elizabeth Robins: 'Mrs. B. was an applicant for a separation order (since divorce is too dear a luxury for any of this class). The ground of Mrs. B's plea was the infidelity of her husband. "You can't get a separation order for that." "Well, but he brings the woman home—he keeps her in the house." "That is no ground." Then the magistrate is given the heart of the grievance. The husband insists on having the interloper in his wife's bedroom. No redress, while one act of infidelity on her part entitles the man to an absolute divorce.' This condition applies to all English women. Comment is superfluous.

"Third, the census of eight years ago put the number of women working in trades at four millions, and all these women are without adequate representation, and in consequence most of them are ill paid and overworked to a degree shockingly unbelievable. In this, as in the above and in most matters affecting the welfare of women in England, there is one law for men and another for women, and without the vote the women are helpless to remedy these conditions. The Government itself offers an excellent illustration of this inequality in the treatment of its postal and telegraph employees. At one end of a telegraph line you find a man earning 200lb ($1,000) a year and a woman at the other end earning 80lb ($400)."

NEVER TRAVEL IN ITALY WITHOUT A ROPE.

In the April Woman's Home Companion a contributor gives complete directions for a two-weeks' trip in Italy showing what it costs to visit eight cities and how to make the trip comfortably, economically and most profitably. The following extract explains why no one should travel in Italy without a rope:

"Let me urge the tourist not to fail to provide himself with a stout rope—a piece of clothes-line is excellent—with which to tie up the trunk which is to go into the Italian baggage car. If you do not you may miss many train connections. It is a trick of the canny Italian baggage master. When you go to check, or 'register,' your trunk at the railway station, this crafty robber will try to stick his fingers under the lock or under the staples at the sides. Then he will shrug his shoulders and tell you blandly that he cannot accept the trunk for registration, as it is not fastened securely enough, and if the baggageman stole any of your effects, while en route, the railroad would be responsible. The trunk must be tied with a rope and sealed, he will tell you. You have no time to go rope hunting. You have to buy a rope from him. He charges you what he thinks he can make you pay. The price depends on how many minutes you still have to catch your train. Then he clips on a little leaden tag, where the rope is knotted, and your trunk is officially sealed. It is a very serious offense to break this seal.

"Now, then, if your trunk is roped when it reaches the hands of the boss baggageman, he is required, at your request and upon payment of two cents to affix the official seal. So, as a last word, don't forget the rope!"

Who Was Daffydownilly?

Mother Goose, like all world poets, never told half she knew. Poetess laureate of the English speaking nursery, her most complete achievements in rhyme are yet of an incompleteness that insure us against satiety. In those shreds and patches of verse, those isolated couplets and quatrains suggesting so much and saying so little, we perceive the promise of that perfected art foreshadowed in the unfinished tales of a Dickens and a Stevenson. Rudyard Kipling, deliberately fashioning metrical fragments for preludes to his Indian tales, struck a note seldom sustained in his completed compositions.

Who was Daffydownilly, and what did she do when she came to town? Was Jumping Joan flesh, fairy or symbol? Would we laugh or cry did we understand the fantastic apparition of Banbury Cross? Why did Margery Daw sell her bed to lie upon straw, and was there not something behind the appearance of her purely eccentric depravity?—W. T. Farned in Century.

NOTABLE GATHERING OF MASONS IN NEW TEMPLE

Masonic Bodies Unite in the Greatest Meeting in Years, and Grand Master Attends.

MORE THAN $2000 GIVEN FOR FIXTURES

Two Hundred and Fifty Masons Attend Initial Meeting of Masonic Bodies in Beautiful New Home Last Night—All Surrounding Lodges Well Represented—Banquet a Leading Feature.

Pre-eminently marking an epoch in the history of Fayette county Masonry was the banquet and "get-together" meeting of the four branches of the order, the Knight-Templars, the Council, the Chapter and the Blue lodge, in the splendid new Temple Friday night.

It was the first time in two years that there had been a big meeting of this kind, and it was an occasion of the utmost social and fraternal pleasure, as well as a banquet of brilliancy and beauty on a par with the dignified home, justly the pride of Fayette county's Masons.

In the fullest sense it was a "get-together" meeting, and two hundred and fifty representative members of the four branches assembled, including Masons from Jeffersonville, Bloomingsburg and New Holland, and the Grand Master of Ohio, Charles J. Pretzman, honoring the occasion with his presence.

While marked by exceptional social feature, the dominant feature of the gathering, and the one of supreme interest to the Masons, was that over $2000 was voluntarily pledged for the furnishing of the new Temple before the banqueters rose from the table.

Music and oratory were adjuncts to a superb four course banquet served by the Ladies of the Eastern Star and which richly deserved all the congratulations and warm encomiums bestowed upon it by the Masons.

The splendid big banquet hall blazed with a flood of light, and the long tables, gleaming with crystal, silver and blazing scarlet candles. The red and green color scheme was brilliantly effective. Brass candelabra, with sparkling prisms, held scarlet candles, reflected in mirrors, in the center of the tables, and candlesticks of similar pattern graced the ends of the tables.

Garlands of smilax linked the candlesticks and added graceful adornment.

The four courses comprised exclusive delicacies of the season and was perfectly served by members of the Eastern Star, all wearing white.

While the guests were gathering, Messrs. Whelpley and Kneisley gave a delightful concert of violin and piano numbers, and Dr. L. P. Howell sang several beautiful tenor solos, receiving hearty recalls.

During the banquet a fine concert by the Columbia graphophone entertained the banqueters.

Of notable interest and pleasure was the toast program which followed the coffee.

Mr. E. L. Bush was particularly happy in the role of toastmaster, himself giving a brief resume of local Masonic history.

The address of the evening by the Grand Master of Ohio, Charles J. Pretzman, was a forceful exposition of Masonic principles and purposes and brought forth applause that rent the air.

Hon. Humphrey Jones, whose oratory is always enforced by a keen intellectuality which enables him to bring his audience within the grasp of whatever subject he handles, made one of the finest addresses ever delivered before a Masonic body. It teemed with fraternal loyalty and left the imprint of his own faith in the principles of the order.

In effective contrast to the other speakers was a witty, impromptu toast from Rev. W. B. Gage which brought forth laughter and applause.

Toastmaster Bush presented to the Masons the project of raising funds for the furnishing of the Temple and generous response was given in donations of over $2000.

The bonds of fraternal association were drawn closely together in last night's gathering, a most complete success.

The ladies of the Eastern Star fully shared in the evening's laurels. Mrs. Eva J. Penn, Past Worthy Grand Matron of Ohio, acted as general chairman; Mrs. L. P. Howell was chairman of the Kitchen department, and Mrs. Martha Mark, of the soliciting. Forty Jeffersonville Masons came over in the Baker motor bus.

NEW SAFE-CABINET ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Glenn M. Pine, the insurance and realty agent, has just installed the first safe-cabinet of its kind that has come to Washington, and the lightness in weight, convenience, and other qualities not possessed by the heavy iron safe, is attracting attention among local business and professional men.

The safe-cabinet, which is manufactured by the safe-Cabinet Company of Marietta, is a comparatively new invention, and has been approved by the Underwriters.

It is fire-proof, weighs 225 pounds, has large storage capacity, costs less than an iron safe, and is more convenient, besides being an attractive addition to the office.

The space inside the safe-cabinet is as large as that usually found in a 2,000 pound safe.

WOULD-BE-BURGLAR ENTERS BARCHET HOME LAST NIGHT

Unknown Prowler Frightened Away Before He Has Chance to Secure Valuables, and Escapes Just in Time to Prevent Effective Use of Revolver Wielded by Mr. Barchet.

The sharp crack of a pistol at the D. H. Barchet residence on East Court street about 12 o'clock Friday night drew the police to that vicinity on the double-quick, where it was learned that a would-be burglar had been frightened away after having entered the Barchet premises by a side window.

The presence of the midnight visitor was discovered when Mrs. Barchet was aroused by a noise, and upon investigation found that some unknown party was in the house and had hurriedly retreated down stairs. She immediately aroused Mr. Barchet who seized a revolver and started in pursuit of the fleeing man, but the fellow had thrown up a window on the west side of the house and escaped before Mr. Barchet reached the first floor, so he threw open a door and stepping outside fired the pistol in the air. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Barchet got even a glimpse of the man.

An examination disclosed that the unwelcome visitor had not stolen anything, and it is supposed that he had just entered the house and made his way up-stairs when the noise he made aroused Mrs. Barchet, and he fled immediately.

The police have been unable to find even a clue as to who the man is. Had Mr. Barchet succeeded in gaining a view of him, it is probable that there would have been a dead burglar in the city.

take the place of two regulars who could not be present.

The game between the girls' teams while full of interest, was not so exciting as that between the boys, but it was the best game the girls have played, and each one did excellent work at every stage of the game. When time was called the score was even, and in an additional three minutes a lucky shot made by Miss Fisher, of the Wilmington team left the score standing seven to nine.

Sign of Poverty.

It rained Saturday. And on the morning of Saturday—not so very early in the morning, but well before the ordinary man's luncheon hour—a friend of ours met an acquaintance strolling along. Do you remember the fellow who would not carry a latchkey because it spoiled the set of his clothes? Well, it was that fellow.

"Gee whizz, fellow!" said our friend. "You are wandering along here in the rain just as if it was fine weather. You will catch your death of cold. Why don't you carry an umbrella?"

"Oh, I don't like to carry an umbrella," answered the other. "Afraid you'll lose it?"

"Oh, no; it isn't that. But it seems so vulgar to carry an umbrella—looks as though a fellow didn't have another suit of clothes, don't you know?"—Boston Advertiser.

In Social Circles

A beautifully planned bridal luncheon was given by Miss Louise Weaver at her hospitable suburban home at one o'clock today, in compliment to Miss Mina Rowe.

In the dining room St. Patrick's day decorations prevailed and a color scheme of green and white was most artistically carried out. Adorning the center of the table, white sweet peas and hyacinths rose in the form of a beautiful Shamrock in the center of a mirror, garlanded with smilax. White tapers, beneath green shades burned in crystal candlesticks and shamrocks and green hats marked the places.

The favors were exquisite little corsage bouquets of hyacinths and sweet peas, tied with maline.

An elaborate five course menu of spring delicacies was served and the luncheon hour made merry with witty conversation and expressions of good wishes to the future bride.

Very charming she looked in a tulle gown of flowered chiffon taffeta, rose and goblin blue, with ruffled skirt and bodice trimmed with Quaker lace and rose panne velvet.

Miss Weaver was bright and pretty in an elaborate gown of brown charmeuse, the skirt in triple tiers, with Parisian border, and the bodice garniture of plaited chiffon vest and frills figured in the shades of the border.

Assisting in the hospitalities were Mrs. Edwin Weaver, Misses Jeanette Weaver and Bessie Casey.

The guests were the girls of the Home Economics Club, Misses Rowe, Kyle, Craig, Austin, Ruth McCoy, Pite, Calvert, Sheen, Iva Haines, Penner, Mary Weaver, Grove, Mrs. P. M. Blessing, Mrs. Ray Maddox, Mrs. Clarence Craig.

Dr. Clayton Lanum and sister, Miss Del Lanum, handsomely entertained the Friday Evening Eucher Club.

A very pretty compliment was a "tea" given by the Domestic Science girls of the High School for Miss Mina Rowe, Domestic Science teacher of the high school, whose marriage this month will terminate school relations.

Miss Rowe's pupils are devoted to her and the tea was an expression of their affection, no less than a beautiful and charming affair.

The Domestic Department had been transformed in a bower of white and green, festoons waving gracefully from the dome overhead and window embrasures banked in ferns and potted plants.

Tea was served at twelve small tables, artistically decked with vases of spring blossoms, sandwich baskets of sandwiches and cakes, and confections.

The eighty girls of the class, looking like spring flowers in light summer dresses with corsage bouquets, served informally, and presented Miss Rowe with a handsome solid silver cold meat fork.

Miss Rowe, in a becoming gown of black and white messaline, with relief of coral, responded gracefully to the pretty courtesies extended to her and nothing has been done for her that she has more appreciated than this compliment from "her girls."

Miss Gertrude Coffman was chairman of the entertaining committee, the girls rallying to her support in carrying out the arrangements. Supt. McClain and Prof. Probasco were privilege guests.

Miss Lavin Cockerill pleasantly entertained two tables of Auction Bridge Friday afternoon, in honor of Miss Mary Geiger, of Troy, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Alex. H. Ballard.

The additional guests were Mesdames Ellis Daugherty, Pauline Spragg, Pearce Ballard, Conrad Schweitzer, W. J. Galvin, Miss Elizabeth Ballard.

The women of the Friday Afternoon Kensington club, with a few additional guests, were delightfully entertained by Mrs. George Gregg yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. W. R. Smith gave a charming six o'clock dinner Friday evening for her daughter, Mrs. Senath Kellough, in honor of her eighteenth birthday.

The table, laid with eight covers, was beautifully decorated, its center-piece a big basket of pink and white sweet peas and smilax, a pink bow tying the handle.

A delicious course dinner was served. Seated with the hostess were Misses Essie and Lydia Vincent, Wilma Hammer, Dorothy Saxton, Louise Greiner, Winona DeWitt, Fern Sun-ke.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Leigh Stitt are entertaining at a dinner tomorrow Mrs. David Clark, of Indianapolis, Miss Ethel Stitt, of Washington, Ind.; Miss Ercel Stitt and J. Y. Stitt, of Bloomington; Misses Myrtle McCoy, Edith Hamm, Dr. Eric Twachtman, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Harry Jenkins.

The out-of-town guests arrived Saturday and remain for a house party which Dr. and Mrs. Stitt are entertaining. Several other guests arrive the first of the week.

Miss Howat and Miss Johnson sent out invitations Saturday for a Kensington next Tuesday, in honor of Mrs. W. J. Galvin.

The Browning club will give a reception at Conservatory hall Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Miss Anna B. Johnson, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Morris, a prominent club woman, of Columbus, will also be a guest.

The Browning club is inviting the D. A. R. and the Cecilians, and a full attendance of members is expected.

Miss Johnson will address the clubwomen.

WARRANT FOR CHICKEN THIEF

Young Man Wanted for Theft of Yellow Legged Chickens is Also Accused of Stealing Horse and Rig With Which to Move Stolen Fowls.

The police of a number of towns and cities have been warned to be on the lookout for Ray Briggs, 21, a resident of Bloomington, Clinton county, who is wanted for obtaining money under false pretense, stealing chickens, a horse and buggy, and who has been in trouble a number of times recently.

Friday an affidavit was filed against him by Henry Adams, a groceryman, of Sabina, who had purchased the chickens from the young man, and later found that the chickens had been stolen.

The young man, who is said to have served time in the Mansfield Reformatory, is alleged to have stolen a horse a day or two ago from Press Cooper, of Bloomington, and a rig from another citizen in the same place. He is then alleged to have driven to the home of a third party and robbed his chicken roost.

After committing the several crimes he drove to Sabina, where he sold the chickens, and leaving the horse and rig on the street, returned to Blomington, changed clothes, and left for parts unknown. The horse and rig have been returned to their owners, and the authorities are searching for Briggs.

According to reports from Sabina, the young man has a very black record, and it is "growing no better fast".

M'CLUNG TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

Physical Director J. W. McClung, whose efficient work in the Y. M. C. A. during the past 18 months has resulted in great good to a great many Washington citizens, has tendered his resignation to the Y. M. C. A. board, to take effect some time in May or June.

It is Mr. Clung's intention to return to Louisville, Ky., where he will resume his old trade.

So far no action has been taken by the board to secure a successor to Mr. McClung, but this will probably be taken up at an early meeting.

PUBLIC EXHIBITION NIGHT OF APRIL 1

The women's gymnasium class is now hard at work preparing for a public exhibition of their skill in the various exercises in which they have been drilled.

The exhibition will be held at Memorial hall, Wednesday night, April 1st and the proceeds will be for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. campaign fund.

During rehearsals, or while the class is being instructed for the next few weeks, no visitors will be permitted to watch the work.

HIGH JUMPER GETS PUBLICITY

Will Taylor, the phenomenal jumper, who got his start at the local Y. M. C. A., is in the city today, taking instruction in the high jump.

The Ohio State Journal carried a good picture of the promising young athlete, Friday, and predicted that he would some day hold the world's championship record if he continues to increase the distance in the standing high jump.

St. Patrick's Prayer at Munster.
A blessing on the Munster people—Men, youths and women:
A blessing on the land
That yields them fruit!

A blessing on every treasure
That shall be produced in their plains.
Without any one being in want of help,
God's blessing be on Munster!

A blessing be on their peaks,
On their fair flagstones,
A blessing on their glens,
A blessing on their ridges.

Like the end of the sea under ships
Be the number of their hearths.
On slopes, on plains,
On mountains, on hills, a blessing!

PEPPER THROWN IN EYES

Chicago, Ill., March 14.—Daniel Epner, a New York jewelry salesman, was blinded with red pepper, beaten and robbed of $15,000 in cash and $55,000 in jewels and uncut diamonds when on West Kinzie street, near North Halstead, shortly after 9 o'clock last night.

Epner represents a New York firm, and has been in Chicago since March 6. Early last evening he went to 1104 Blue Island avenue, where he displayed samples of his jewelry. It is believed that the robbers followed him from the place.

As he stepped from a car he hesitated. The two men approached him and asked if he wished to take the Milwaukee avenue car. He answered yes, and they said: "We'll show you."

They led him south on North Halstead street to Kinzie and west about 50 feet on Kinzie along the Northwestern Railroad elevation.

Here the two men suddenly halted their victim and one of them threw pepper in his eyes. Overcome with pain and surprise he was confronted with a revolver. He submitted to the robbery, one man holding a revolver pointed at him while the other took his sample case, which contained $25,000 in samples, he says, and then extracted a wallet with $30,000 in uncut diamonds and his money purse.

In order to complete their work the two men then beat their victim.

FIRST Farmers who have experimented find their yield increased and the more bushels the more dollars.

SECOND Fertilized crops mature earlier and the quality of the grain is much better. Especially is it important to grow first-class corn, as under the act of the Federal Agricultural Commission all corn will be graded after June 1st.

FREE TOLLS REPEAL MEANS HARD BATTLE

Washington, March 14.—The administration forces in the Senate are making ready for the great contest over the repeal of the clause of the Panama Canal act, which exempts American coastwise shipping from the paying of tolls.

In the House a bill repealing the exemption has been reported from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Yesterday Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, a member of the Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals of the Senate, introduced a similar bill, and announced that he would get the committee to act without delay on the measure.

It is indicated that the committee will not delay action on the question, realizing that this problem is one which must be threshed out in the Senate, as well as in the House.

The question of President Wilson in asking that the exemption clause be repealed is a plain alternative of repeal or refusal to repeal, and offers little opportunity for committee activity other than discussion.

There is no question now of the Senate acceding by a considerable majority to President Wilson's request, but the victory will be won by the administration only after it has had the most severe grilling it has yet encountered.

It is frankly recognized that religious prejudices are being appealed to in connection with the fight, and while it is not anticipated that this will appear in debate, it is believed that this undercurrent may lead to the debate a degree of bitterness which might otherwise be absent.

That a very active propaganda in favor of repeal has been carried forward by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace was revealed by the Senate Lobby Inquiry Committee yesterday. This organization has an annual income of $500,000 from $10,000,000 of 5 per cent United States Steel Corporation bonds, which Andrew Carnegie set aside as an endowment for the promotion of international peace.

James Brown Scott, Secretary of the foundation, produced the records of the endowment yesterday, and told the committee that $32,469 had been appropriated by the Executive Committee during the last year for a propaganda against free tolls, and that $23,500 of this sum had been spent in sending out 1,200,000 copies of a statement against free tolls signed by members of the Board of Trustees, and 715,000 copies of a speech by Senator Elihu Root, president of the endowment.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT CANE

Washington, March 14.—A $75 gold headed cane ordered by Senator Martine, of New Jersey, from a New York firm, and intended as a birthday gift to Vice-President Marshall, lies unclaimed in an express office here.

When he heard that the Vice-President will celebrate his sixtieth birthday today, the New Jersey Senator decided that the Senate ought to show substantial recognition to its distinguished presiding officer. So Martine took up a collection among his colleagues and ordered a gold-headed cane.

Soon after he rapped the Senate to order yesterday, the Vice-President called Senator Martine to his desk. "Jim" began the Vice-President, "I understand that you have passed the hat among the Senators and taken up a collection to buy me a gold-headed cane as a birthday present. I appreciate the motive, that prompted your doing this, but I do not wish any birthday gift."

Reluctantly Martine returned the money he had collected to the several contributors and cancelled the order for the cane. The intended present, however, had already arrived here and the New Jersey Senator is wondering what to do with it.

ATTACK FOOD WEIGHING LAW

Columbus, Ohio, March 14.—Attorneys have filed in the Supreme court a brief for Henry H. Steube, who is seeking release on a writ of habeas corpus from arrest for violating the recent act of the General Assembly, requiring sale of food products by weight unless there is a specific contract to the contrary in writing.

The statute already has been held invalid by the lower courts and comes to the final tribunal for review. A majority of the judges may knock it out.

The attack is based on alleged violation of both state and federal constitutions. It is claimed that the statute infringes upon the right of contract, invades the domain of Congress and abridges the rights of citizens. The assailants of the law contend that it cannot properly be held to be a police measure since the act bears no relations to prevention of frauds on the public.

NATIONAL PIKE TO BE REBUILT

Columbus, Ohio, March 14.—With state and federal authorities co-operating, actual work of rehabilitating the old national pike from Columbus to Wheeling, W. Va., will start May 1. The first thing to be done will be the letting of a contract for 24 miles of concrete roadway, the longest stretch ever let in Ohio at one time. On request of federal authorities at Washington the original plan of reconstructing the old road with brick was abandoned.

The change was occasioned because of the expense of brick paving. The Federal government would not give assistance unless the work could be done for $16,000 a mile or less.

That portion of the old national pike which will be constructed this year runs from Zanesville, in Muskingum county, west to near Hebron, in Licking county, a distance of 24 miles.

The total cost of construction as planned will be about $440,000. Of this amount the Federal government will pay $120,000, Muskingum county $100,000 and Licking county $140,000. The remainder $80,000, will be paid by the state.

CONSERVATION OF OHIO NATURAL GAS

Exhaustion of Ohio gas fields is causing anxiety to gas interests of the state and communities dependent upon this source for fuel supply. The rapid depletion of these stores of fuel is held by local public utility men as revealing the wastefulness of the competitive conditions which have existed, unregulated. That this great natural resource should have the application of some conservation policy under the supervision of the state is the opinion of a number of local gas authorities. It is only a few years since Ohio was one of the greatest gas-producing states in the nation. Now it is held by the gas experts that it is fast approaching a day of no natural gas of its own, when it will be absolutely dependent upon supplies from adjoining states. That the problem is one for state solution, the gas men say, is revealed by the fact that Ohio's experience, is but a repetition of that of Indiana when the gas companies themselves should have learned the necessity for conservation and did not.

Gas development in Ohio, it is said, has been more of a scramble by opposing interests than an effort to make a natural resource of the state a fairly enduring utility for the people. Gas men generally concede that there has been lacking every conserving policy in the business. Private interest has overshadowed every proposition of safeguarding the supply. The system, as described by gas men, has been one of fighting for leases in the vicinity of a producing well between many companies, large and small. In most instances the leases have been secured on a basis of immediate development regardless of marketing possibilities. This has been followed by drilling that has riddled the earth with holes. As a result the stored-up gas in a single section has been brought out simultaneously by from two to half a dozen separate companies and in some cases the entire supply piped away through different lines to the same possible market. Under this system gas engineers say that a district that should have supplied gas for 20 to 30 years has been exhausted in five years.

MANY SHOPPERS IN CITY TODAY

The largest crowd that has assembled in the city since Christmas, thronged the streets Saturday afternoon, drawn by the spring-like weather which has supplanted the very disagreeable weather of the past few weeks.

Most of those in the city came for the purpose of buying, and the indications pointed to the largest day's shopping in the city for two months or more, and in most shops the clerks were kept busy waiting on the steady stream of persons who flocked about the stores.

Business has been slow for weeks, due in a great measure to the condition of the weather and the highways, snow blocking the roads in many places and rendering travel dangerous.

With the appearance of good weather, and the large assortment of new spring goods ready in this city, business is expected to take on new life and continue good indefinitely.

All new officers were present and filled their chairs with due respect. We adjourned feeling it was well to be there to meet with Mrs. Roberts April 9.

ELEANOR WILL WED M'ADOO

Washington, March 14.—Just as society was despairing of an official announcement from the White House about the reported engagement of Miss Eleanor Wilson to William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, a statement was given out last night by the President's Secretary, Mr. Tully, to this effect:

"The President and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Randolph to William Gibbs McAdoo."

Those few words made certain that the wedding bells will chime in the White House for the second time in the Wilson administration within the space of six months, and that Miss Eleanor Wilson will be the 14th White House bride.

Rumor has it, however, that it will take place at a very early date, either in Easter week or when the June roses blossom about the White House grounds.

Stories Told About Good St. Patrick

ALTHOUGH England, Scotland, France and Wales each lays claim to having been the country of St. Patrick's birth, he belongs to the Irish and no one else. For all his good works were accomplished among them, and all his traditions are associated with them. He loved Ireland, and Ireland loved him and still adores everything connected with his name. He has done more for the spiritual uplift of the country than any other one who has ministered spiritually to it, and while there may be many myths and legends associated with him in which he had no part, yet they go to add to the romance and beauty of his character and charm and veneration to his name.

St. Patrick was born about the year 372. When he was sixteen years of age he was stolen by pirates, who sold him into slavery in Ireland, where his master employed him as a swineherd in the mountains of Celeamish, in the county of Omstreth. Being warned in a dream by God to run away, Patrick set out for a town on the continent.

Advancement in the Church.

Having already passed seven years in Ireland, where he had become perfectly familiar with its language, its manners, habits and customs, he was, of course, well qualified to become a sabbatarian or theologian abroad, which he did and was ordained deacon, priest and bishop, and then once more, by the authority of the pope, he returned to Ireland to preach the gospel to the people he had come to love so well.

A popular legend relates that the saint and his followers found themselves one cold morning on a mountain without a fire to cook their breakfast or warm their frozen limbs. On hearing their complaints Patrick desired them to collect a pile of ice and snowballs, which having been done he breathed upon it, and instantaneously it became a pleasant fire—a fire that long after served to point a poet's concept in these lines:

St. Patrick, as in legends told,
The morning being very cold,
In order to assuage the weather,
Collected bits of ice together,
Then gently breathed upon the pyre.
When every fragment blazed on fire.
"Oh, if the saint had been so kind
As to have left the gift behind
To such a lovelorn wretch as me,
Who daily struggles to be free,
I'd be content—content with part—
I'd only ask to thaw the heart,
The frozen heart of Polly Roe!"

The greatest of St. Patrick miracles was that of driving the venomous reptiles out of Ireland and rendering the soil forever after so obnoxious to the serpents that they instantaneously died on touching it. Colgan seriously relates that St. Patrick accomplished this feat by beating a drum, which he struck with such fervor that he knocked a hole in it, thereby endangering the success of the miracle. But an angel appeared, mended the drum, and the patched instrument was long exhibited as a holy relic.

Legend of the Shamrock.

The shamrock, or small white clover, is almost universally worn in the hat over all Ireland on St. Patrick's day. The popular notion is that when St. Patrick was preaching the doctrine of the trinity to the pagan Irish he used this plant, bearing three leaves upon one stem, as a symbol or illustration of the great mystery. To suppose, as some absurdly hold, that he used it as an argument would be derogatory to the saint's high reputation for orthodoxy and good sense. But it is certainly a curious coincidence, if nothing more, that the trefoil, in Arabic, is called "shamrath" and was held secret in Iran as emblematic of the Persian triads. Pliny, too, in his natural history says that serpents are never seen upon trefoil, and it prevails against the stings of snakes and scorpions.

It is said that in the Galtee or Galtee mountains, situated between the counties of Cork and Tipperary, there are seven lakes, in one of which, called Lough Dilveen, it is said St. Patrick when banishing the snakes and toads from Ireland chained a monster serpent, telling him to remain there till Monday. The serpent every Monday morning calls out in Irish, "It is a long Monday, Patrick!" That St. Patrick chained the serpent in Lough Dilveen and that the serpent calls out to him every Monday morning are firmly believed by the lower orders who live in the neighborhood of the lough.

St. Patrick is commonly stated to have died at Saul on the 17th of March, 433, in the one hundred and twenty-first year of his age.

Two Dishes For St. Patrick's Day. St. Patrick's Savory.—Boil six large potatoes with their jackets and let them cool in the skins. Then peel, slice and chill. Chop very fine a heap of tablespoonful of parsley and half an onion, mix lightly, cover with sauce tartare and serve on lettuce leaves.

Green Pepper Salad.—Open a can of asparagus tips, wash them lightly in cold water and ice them to get them very cold. Cut a green pepper in half and remove the seeds. Lay the tips in this and cover with mayonnaise. Rest the cups on lettuce or escarole.

A Question of Sentiment.

If you like the girl she's vivacious; otherwise she's too blamed noisy.—Aitchison Globe.

THE Ancient Language of Ireland

By PATRICK O'SHEA

(Copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.)

BEFORE the Saxons and other Teuton tribes had effected a permanent settlement in England the ancestors of the Irish nation were enjoying the blessings of a Christian civilization. A few centuries before the English language, even in the crudest form, was spoken, Gaelic had blossomed into poetry and eloquence.

Gaelic is admitted by philologists to be a closer resemblance to the original language of the race than any of the other Celtic dialects. That it has remained unchanged in some respects during more than 2,000 years is evident from the fact, among others, that place names extending from the strait of Dardanelles to the western coast of Europe mean in Gaelic today what they meant to the ancient Celts.

It is now generally admitted among linguists that the Celtic languages stand in a much closer relationship to Latin than any other group.

The features that differentiate the Brythonic dialects, comprising Welsh, Breton and Cornish, from the Gaelic dialects, Irish, Scottish, Gaelic and Manx, are supposed to have first appeared after the Romans had left Britain in the year 410. At the beginning of the Christian era the differences between the two groups were probably but slight. Of the Gaelic dialects, to old Irish must be assigned the priority, as both Scottish Gaelic and Manx can be traced back to that original source. Even now the differences between the Gaelic spoken by the Irish and the Scottish Gaels are scarcely greater than those local variations which distinguish the language as spoken in Munster, Connaught and Ulster.

There has been a continuous Gaelic literature from the seventh century, nearly all of it produced in Ireland, though some manuscripts written in that language by Irish missionaries and scholars during that and succeeding centuries are to be found in various European libraries. It was the language which St. Patrick used with such surprising and beneficent effect in converting the ancient Irish from druidism to Christianity. Gaelic was probably a familiar speech to him, even previous to his capture and enslavement in Ireland. That St. Patrick was a thorough master of the language might be inferred from the surprising result of his apostolic labors.

The Gaelic of St. Patrick's time was not the rude, uncultured speech of savages, but a highly developed exponent of thought and feeling, capable of expressing abstract notions as well as ideas limited to the daily exigencies of life. The literary and intellectual activity displayed in Ireland, in a period not long removed from the days of St. Patrick, seems to be only explicable upon the assumption that mental activity and in a certain sense scholarship were not exotics in Ireland, even at the time when St. Patrick labored there.

During the past three decades the Irish have become keenly alive to the importance of preserving their venerable language from complete extinction. Gaelic is now taught in many of the national and parish schools, and an appeal to Irish patriotism in its behalf has not been in vain. Gaelic professorships have been established in Trinity college, Dublin, in the College of St. Patrick at Maynooth and in the University of Edinburgh, while in Oxford, the University of Paris and other prominent seats of learning professorships of the Celtic languages have been established. In the United States Gaelic chairs exist in Harvard university, in the Catholic University of America at Washington and in Notre Dame university of Indiana.

BROTHERS OF ST. PATRICK

The Brothers of St. Patrick, or Patrician Brothers, have played an important part in the educational history of Ireland. According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, this brotherhood was founded by the Right Rev. Dr. Daniel Delaney, bishop of Kildare and Leighton, at Tullow, in the county of Carlow, Ireland, on the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary in 1808, for the religious and literary education of the youth and the instruction of the faithful in Catholic piety. Ireland was just at that time emerging from the troubled times of penal laws. These laws made it treasonable for a Catholic parent to procure for his child a religious and secular education in consonance with his belief.

The nucleus of this body was chosen from seven young Sunday school teachers in his diocese. In later years affiliations were established with other dioceses.

ERIN, THE TEAR AND THE SMILE IN THINE EYES.

ERIN, the tear and the smile in thine eyes
Blend like the rainbow that hangs in the skies.
Shining through sorrow's stream,
Saddening through pleasure's beam,
Thy suns with doubtful gleam weep while thy rise.

Erin, thy silent tear ne'er shall cease;
Erin, thy languid smile ne'er shall increase
Till, like the rainbow's light,
Thy various tints unite
And form in heaven's sight one arch of peace!
